Truth and Reconciliation at UBC: Learning About the Past and Preparing to Transform the Future

On September 1st, UBC took the extraordinary step of suspending all classes, on its Vancouver campus in order to give members of the UBC community the opportunity to more fully engage and participate in the National Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada National Event. Learn more about some of the events, resources, and continuing engagement opportunities that took place.

Read More

Celebrate Learning at UBC!

Join us on October 20 - 26 to celebrate the 49th annual UBC Celebrate Learning Week. The week-longrobust celebration celebrates teaching and learning opportunities, and will feature numerous events happening at various locations on and off campus.

Read More

UBC Course Offerings Feature Students as Producers of Content

The final round of projects supported by UBC’s 6-Finder Learning Initiative are underway and undergraduate courses have already been transformed. Find out how student-generated content will be incorporated in a variety of ways into some of the new flexible learning projects that are currently being developed at UBC.

Read More

Update on Connect Issues

Since the beginning of term, Connect users have experienced a number of periods during which the service has been unavailable or during which response times have been slow. Learn more about ways to best minimize the impact of these outages, sign up for outage notifications, and sign up for status reports.

Read More